BOGUS BOMB FOR MAYOR SWIFT. Anonymous Letters Threatening Him with Carter Harrison's Fate.

Unicago, Jan. 9.-What looked like a bomb was brought into Mayor Swift's office yesterday afternoon by a letter carrier. It had been dropped into the big mail box in the Post Office, and the Postmaster, suspecting something was wrong with the package, had it delivered by a special carrier and sent a note of warning with it. The imitation bomb was a piece of threeeighth inch gas pipe, five and a quarter inches long, stuffed with candle wicking, and stopped long, stuffed with candle wicking, and stopped up at one end with a pine plug. Two inches of the candle wicking extended from one end. It was tied up in a piece of tissue paper and had a heavy string around it. To the string was attached a plece of pastoboard two inches square, with "Mayor Swift" printed on it in ink.

Two policemen were detailed to take the suspicious object into the basement, where it was discovered that it was staffed with candle wicking. The Mayor was not much disturbed over the matter. For several weeks some one has been writing Mrs. Swift anonymous letters. The writer made various threats, but the chief one was that, unless Mr. Swift resigned, he would suffer the same faic as Mayor Harrison. These letters have annoyed the Mayor exceedingly because they troubled his wife. The notes have been written upon various kinds of paper and with the evident purpose in each of changing the character of the handwriting.

The Rev. Dr. Lawrence of the Second Raptist Church yesterday reported to the police that he had received a bomb similar to the one sent Mayor Swift.

Won a Horse for Nine Cents and Sold It for $120. MONTCLAIR, Jan. 9.-Edward E. Leach, a grocer of this town, sold a horse yesterday for $120 that on Dec. 28 cost him only nine cents. About the first of December, Mr. Leach, while in Newark, was prevailed upon by some friends to take a chance in a rafle for a horse. Mr. Leach consented and drew a card bearing the number "9," and accordingly paid nine cents for his chance. Mr. Leach won the horse. He was offered $100 for the animal fat the time, but refused the offer. Yesterday he sold it for $120.

Dieffenbach's Judgment Against Eric Re-duced to $25,000.

Henry L. Sprague, counsel for the Erie Railway, asked Justice Daly yesterday to set aside the werdict of $35,000 damages granted William H. Dieffenbach by a jury on Wednesday apon the ground that the verdict was excessive, A motion for a new trial was also made. Dieffenbach, a travelling salesman, was injured in a collision which took place on March 16, 1893, on the defendant's road. Justice Daly held that the verdict was excessive, and reduced it to $25,000.

Gets 8400 from the Telephone Company. John Kerr was driving through a Perth Amboy street on July 26, 1895, when a piece of live telephone wire fell upon his horse, causing the animal to run away. Mr. Kerr was thrown from the vehicle and sustained such injufies as induced him to bring a suit against the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company for $15,000 damages. A jury in the United States Circuit Court, in this city, has awarded him $400.

The conviction appears to be growing in Wall street that the Government is beginning to realize that its last bond circular is a mistake, particularly the provision regarding the time within which subscriptions to the proposed loan can be made. In view of the attitude of Congress, particularly a majority of the Senate, toward any measure providing for the immediate relief of the Treasury, the decision of the Administration to place in jeopardy the business interests of the country for thirty days, in the vain hope that Congress may come to its senses within that period, seems to be an unwise subordination of sound business principles to political expediency. Whether the terms of the bond circular will be changed no one can predict. Modifications in such documents have been made heretofore, and it is possible that, as evidence accumulates that the loan cannot be floated by popular subscription, the Administration may see fit to relieve the sus-quarters there is a disposition to take the view that the banking interests which constitute the machinery for collecting gold are, in the vernac-ular of the West, "holding up" the Treasury As noted above, however, current advices from Washington seem to indicate a disposition on the part of some people in authority to "hold up" the syndicate on account of the intimate relations between its members and the business of the country. determination of the Treasury Department t withhold from the public the daily transacof receipts and disbursements, namely, the right to know at the close of business, if not be fore, the amount of withdrawals or deposits of gold at the Sub-Treasury. The withholding of this information is certain to create distrust. The transactions at the Sub-Treasury are eventually shown in the daily statement issued by the department at Washington, but they are not shown in detail, and, as is well known, that statement is constantly fully twenty-four hours behind the actual facts.

Leather preferred and Manhattan Railway, The first sustained a net loss of three points a novement that was accompanied by reports that the company may suspend the payment of all that is known regarding the condition of the company's business, it would not be surprising if there was substantial basis for the reports referred to. The price of the stock itself is corroborative of the be-lief that dividends will be suspended. The decline in Manhattan Railway was attended by reports that the city authorities will increase the company's taxation this year by placing a larger valuation upon its stock than they did last year. The circulation of these reports caused officers of the company to call attention to the fact that questions affecting the levying of taxes upon the company's capital are now before the Court of Appeals, and that any differences which may arise between the company and the Board of Assessors will be determined by an impending decision by that court.

That is regarded not unaturally as bear point on the general situation, and this fact, it is behaved, will be obvious to everybody if the supplies increase this year at the rate which well-informed people expect. It is pediated out that if the Parislans could not get rid of their coffee at a profit last season, when supplies were comparatively small and decreasing, what reason is there to expect them to market their coffee at satisfactory prices during the present scason, when the period of decreased consumption is close at hand and there is every prospect of a decided augmentation of supplies next season?
